Highlights:

1 mile to Cherry Beach. Comes with a free residence pass to one of the most desirable end-of-the-road Lake Michigan beaches. Drive. Park. Simple. Farmhouse was moved to its large acreage lot and completely restored in the early 70's, keeping all of its old farm house ambiance, but all new bathrooms. Two storied house, where the eaves reach down on the sides of the four upstairs bedrooms. Two old fashioned, a bit steep staircases that make easy access to either section of the upstairs bedrooms. Not for those who find stairs difficult to maneuver. House is set far back from the road at a curved driveway with lots of parking areas

LOCATION OF THE BEACHES:

- Cherry Beach is exactly 1 mile away, down Cherry Beach Road. It is a little known beach, and almost the only one with parking. Parking is first come, first served by residence permit. You will have a residence permit as part of your rental agreement. You put that on your windshield. You are in. There is a sunset balcony on the bluff and a set of stairs down to the beach. A vein of clay is buried in one of the inlets near the beach that children delight in digging out and massage into clay pots. If you are a historian, Cherry Beach Road takes you by one of the oldest, most charming English Tudor estate built by Mr. Warren, of Warren Wood Dunes, and Featherbone Factory fame.
- The Michigan Dunes are exactly 5 miles north off of Red Arrow Highway
